Today’s Program

Today’s program was lead by Marie Mahaffey. She reminded us one of the strengths of Rotary is we support each other. We were each given up to one minute to tell about ourselves. Some went over some went under and one made up an interesting story.

Have you read your current Rotarian? What is the cover story? Who is the RI President and what is his goal for Rotary?

If you have read your Rotarian You will note the cover story is Bridging the Gap. “Rotarians rebuilding bridges around the world”. You will not find this Rotarian on the bridge pictured. The RI President is D.K. Lee. In his letter to his fellow Rotarians he outlines his ambitious goal: to make dreams real for the world’s children by reducing child mortality. He continues to say that we need to increase Rotary membership by 10% this year in order to reach the goal of reducing child mortality. He reminds us we must ensure a new generation of Rotarians to continue our work.

As we sadly lose one old member George Fader it reminds me of another lost member Chuck Gramlich. He would bring the Rotarian in and give a quick summary of the articles. He would always find an item we all should buy. This was of course a funny item. I do not see anything like this in this month’s Rotarian. Too bad this was always fun.
